NEWPORT,
BY CHEANSTON & NORMAN,
127 THAMES STREET.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, OCT. 15, 1861.

As the people of France wear a very serious aspect. Between this time and May, 1862, there will be a great political change there, and it is not improbable that the occurrences which are to take place will affect the destiny of Europe for half a century to come. France cannot remain as she is; she must either become a Republic in fact—a true Republic, or she must go back to Monarchical misrule,—and we fear that neither can be accomplished without a terrible and most bloody revolutionary struggle. The people of France are strongly divided and subdivided into political factions. They dethroned Louis Philippe, and fought well for their liberty, and they expected to free themselves from oppression and to be blessed with a good Republican government, similar in principle and operation to that of the United States. But they have been sadly disappointed. In an evil hour they were beguiled by the magic potency of a name, and elected a man who was not even the ghost of their Napoleon to the Presidency. From the commencement this man has shown himself to be weak, selfish and wickedly ambitious, without the ability to govern a small village, and without the shrewdness to conceal his knavery.

Many of those who favor a revision of the Constitution are bitterly opposed to the re-election of Louis Napoleon. If he attempts to continue in office, notwithstanding the provisions of the Constitution, there will inevitably be a tremendous struggle, in which the blood of thousands will be shed. A portion of the army will probably stand by him, but many of the troops will desert him, and all the moderate politicians will oppose him. The Bourbon faction will probably remain quiet observers of passing events, at least for the present, and wait for a fitting moment for action. The working men of Paris are enraged to a fearful degree, and they will oppose the re-election or continuance of Louis Napoleon in power, in any form, to the bitter end,—and they will fight desperately. The heroes of the barricades of '48 will again be active, and their execution will be terrible; they will have the advantage and benefit of the Generalship of Cavaignac and Lamoriciere, and that will be of great service to them. On the other hand, Louis Napoleon will not passively retire from the scene, which he will use his position, and all the means which he can command to put down the people, and to perpetuate himself in office. The struggle will not commence by degrees. The elements have been in motion for the last two years, and everything is rapidly maturing for the conflict,—and when all things are ready, the storm will break even more suddenly than it did in February '48.

The first blow that is struck will go with electric speed to Austria, Prussia and Italy, and the people of those kingdoms are only waiting for the flame to be kindled in France, when they will be ready for action,—and all Europe will again be wild with the fire of Revolution. Where all this will end, no man can now predict; second revolutions are always better arranged and more sanguinary than first ones, because rulers are always more despotic, and the people are exasperated and desperate, after a failure in a struggle for liberty. The eyes of the whole world will be turned anxiously upon France, during the ensuing eight months.

Mr. Ennon:—
Allow me the use of your columns for the purpose of calling attention to the following cases of distress, with the hope that they may catch the eye of some who have both the heart and the hand to relieve them, and that they may induce many of our fellow-citizens to remember the wants of the numerous families who are cut off from all means of livelihood by the temporary stoppage of the Factories.

Memoranda from my note-book:—
Oct. 13th. Called on Mr. [Name], whose family are in a truly pitiable condition. The last time I called, his little girl was lying at the point of death, with a malignant dysentery; since then another child was taken with the same disease,—and then a third one,—and now I find the father and mother suffering from the same disorder. Mr. M. has not had any employment for three months, and in addition to a debt of $24, which has already been incurred, he has to meet his monthly rent, and to feed his little family for many days, before he can hope to be able to work, even if he is so fortunate as to obtain employment. It is difficult to get him a nurse, because of the fear of taking an infection that is becoming alarmingly prevalent among the poor.

Called on Mrs. [Name], find the family out of fuel, and no means of obtaining any; the husband is dead; the grandmother is infirm; the mother, with her eight children, are dependent upon their own exertions for the little that they have; found the old woman baking some corn-bread with the last of their fuel.

Oct. 10th. Called on Mrs. [Name], found her very ill with dysentery; her daughter's child has died of the same disease; another child is very sick with the same complaint; the husband is at sea, and the family have had no employment for two months.

Contributions for the aid of these and other like cases, may be directed to Rev. Mr. Stewart, No. 9 Howard street.

CHOICE LANGUAGE.—The abolitionists profess to believe that their cause is under the immediate protection of Heaven. We cannot believe that Heaven approves of the language current at the Five Points; or that it smiles benignly on that species of fanaticism, which insists that twenty millions of people are set apart for perdition. The Liberty Party Convention held at Syracuse last week, passed some resolutions, which savor very little of charity, and would be better suited to the days when men were burned at the stake for their opinions, than to the 19th Century. In one of these resolutions the Convention 'rejoices that the city of Syracuse, the Anti-Slavery city of Syracuse, the city of Anti-Slavery Conventions, our beloved and glorious city of Syracuse, still remains undisturbed by the fulfillment of the satanic prediction of Satan's Danie Webster.

Another resolution states that though there are many evidences, (the enactment of the fugitive slave law for one,) that this is a damned and doomed nation, there is a little hope to be derived from the recent arrest of kidnappers in Pennsylvania, and from the resistance to them in Syracuse; that a patient and long suffering God has not left this superlatively wicked nation to perish. It is pretty plain, that if abolitionism was omnipotent, all who differ from it would be consigned to Tophet, without the slightest compunction. In fact, the "Liberty party" seem to blame the Almighty for being somewhat too easy with the friends of the Compromise measures. We once heard a preacher at a camp meeting, implore the Lord to shake sinners in a sieve, over the mouth of the bottomless pit, but on no account to let them fall in. Our Liberty folk, however, seem inclined to have all who disagree with them dumped right in without benefit of the clergy.

The good people of Augusta and Hallowell were somewhat alarmed at the landing, in the latter place, of two barrels of liquid,—one marked "Gin," the other "Brandy." That the barrels were taken from on board the Boston steamer "St. Lawrence," was enough to render it "a fixed fact" that their contents were "orful."—Again, as soon as "the critters" were landed a piece of canvas was carefully spread over them, covering all but one end, and yet that end showed "Gin" and "Brandy." "Kennebec House." The Temperance Club was on hand, and "the beat" was watched with a vigilance creditable to any "Spy." The casks remained on the wharf during the day, but when night came a truckman with his team came and took them to the Kennebec House, and told the landlord—

"I have two barrels for you, marked 'Gin' and 'Brandy.'"

"I won't have them; take them away," replied the landlord.

"They are directed to you and I shall leave them," said Trucky.

"You shall not leave them here," peremptorily answered mine host.

"Well, then I'll take them to my own place," responded the teamster,—and he did. He let them remain in his stable that night, and early next morning started with them for the store of a gentleman who had "sold all out;" he quietly landed the barrels on the back side of the store,—they were suddenly "taken in" and placed in a dark corner of the cellar.

But "the owl had been out" all night to watch the mysterious "spirits," and their intended destination was fully known to the "Vigilant City Marshal." Ere the sun had reached high noon, he of the cockade had procured a search warrant and proceeded to the store above alluded to and there, of course, he made "a seizure as was a seizure." The city was in "great excitement;" a team was soon at hand to take "the deadly poison" to the Marshal's Office, and away it went guarded by an immense concourse of officers and "common people." At the Marshal's office, the liquor was to be "sacrificed," but before this could be done, in order to get evidence against the store keeper, a certain number must have a suck at it. The bungs are knocked out, the proof is tried,—excitement runs high—many rush for a chance to be witnesses against the vile seller—others rush for a drink. A quantity is drawn from each cask and passed about, when it is found to be—COGNITATE WATER!

Here a noise was heard in the air, shouts, cheers, roars of laughter and a self—sounded so loudly in the "Vigilant Marshal's" ear that it is thought he will never forget "Gin," "Brandy," or the "Kennebec House."—Boston Bee.

Jefferson Davis has not declined a nomination of the secessionists for Governor of Mississippi. Both he and Gen. Foote have resigned their Senatorial seats, and the Governor will appoint no one to fill the vacancies.

EFFECTS OF THE GALE AT P. E. ISLAND AND ITS VICINITY.—At Whitby, N. S., the gale was very severe; six vessels got ashore between Robin Hood Bay and Land's End, namely: the Euphemia, of Sunderland, the Peak, the Friends, the Morning Star, the Mary Ann, and the Hope, of Whitby. The two latter broke up during the night. The Mary Ann was partly under water. A French boat, laden with fruit, is supposed to have foundered. Two pilot boats are missing. The Old Abbey is partly blown down. Several vessels are reported to be blown ashore between Teesmouth and Middleboro, and many of them complete wrecks.

The schooner Pioneer, Capt. Coffin, from the Bay of St. Lawrence, arrived at Newburyport on Sunday. She came out of Cascoque harbor, P. E. Island, last instant, in company with about three hundred American fishing vessels, most of which ran down the coast to complete their fares. Many of these were nearly full, and among the fleet were most of the 50 sail which have been reported as lost. We have accounts of the wrecking of 40 vessels belonging to this State and Maine, and the loss of 86 lives—nine of the vessels and eighteen of the lives lost, were from Newburyport.

John W. Dole, of Salisbury, was one of the crew of the Forrest, of this port, reported all lost.

The Newburyport Herald of Monday, says of the Statesman, of Newburyport, of which all hands are reported as lost:—The Statesman belonged to R. Bayley & Son, and there was no insurance on the vessel, and only $250 on the outfit. The following persons comprised her crew: Jacob Fowler, master, of Newburyport; Timothy F. Goodwin, mate, of Amesbury; Chase Eaton, of Saybrook; Abner Fowler, of do; Joseph Fowler, of do; Tristram Brown, of do; Leonard Eaton, of do; Alfred Merritt, of do.

The schooner reported "Belle," (of Newburyport,) whose crew were reported as having been saved and bound home in a boat, the Newburyport Herald says, was probably the Pearl, as there is no vessel named Belle, belonging to that port. It could not be the Isabel, a missing Labradorian, with 14 men, which was seen off Cape Sable, four or five weeks since, and probably foundered in a gale, on her passage up.

Mr. Wade, of Ipswich, from the scene of the disaster, sent the following by telegraph:—
The schooner Traveller, of Newburyport, went ashore at Richibucto, but all hands are safe; schooner Statesman, of Newburyport, was ashore, and all hands lost, and also reported the following ashore at Prince Edward Island:—Schooners Independence and Good Intent, of Newburyport, and all hands saved; Wanderer, of Beverly, crew bound home by boat; Belle, of do, crew bound home; Bell, and Seth Hall, of Dennis, George, of Gloucester, William, and Hickory, of Portland, all ashore, and crews supposed to be saved, as nothing is said to the contrary. Schooner Iliam, of Boothbay, also ashore, and six hands lost.

Three fishing vessels from the Bay Chaleur arrived at Gloucester on Sunday, one of which was the Halsey. They knew nothing of the disaster reported feeling the gale as he passed through the Gut. The W. R. Burnham, of Gloucester, a telegraphic despatch says, is ashore, but the crew are safe.

There are about a dozen vessels out from Wellfleet, which have not yet been heard from, but as a telegraphic despatch from Halifax says that two or three hundred fishing vessels rode out the gale, there is room to hope that the crews, or most of them, are safe.—Boston Atlas.

THE U. STATES AT THE GREAT EXHIBITION.—The London Times has the following "rumoring up" on the subject of the Crystal Palace Exhibition:—

"Great Britain has received more useful ideas and more ingenious inventions from the United States, through the exhibition, than from all other sources."

This is making the acumene honorable to Jonathan after having cried "small potatoes" at the first sight of his traps and notions.

The Morning Chronicle of the 24th has the following:—

"The American department has again received an important accession of strength in the shape of some specimens of Brussels carpet, woven upon power looms. Although various attempts have been made to adapt the power loom to carpet weaving in England, there is not, we believe, at this moment, any machinery perfected for that object. Our American brethren have therefore gained another step ahead of us, and have won another laurel on this well contested field of the industrial arts."

Kossuth and his family.—A correspondent of the Newark Daily Advertiser, writing from Genoa, on the 21st of September, says:—

The steam frigate Mississippi, Capt. Long, arrived off Spezzia, in this kingdom, yesterday, from Constantinople, whence she sailed on the 11th, having on board the Hungarian exiles, save two or three, who were to go direct to England. The illustrious Hungarian leader has his wife and three sons with him, and they are handsomely accommodated in well fitted apartments on board the steamer. The quarantine laws will not permit passengers coming from the Levant to land immediately, so that the steamer will proceed immediately on her way to America, after taking in stores from the naval depot at Spezzia, which, by the liberality of the Sardinian government, is placed at the service of our Mediterranean squadron.—

Before the end of October, therefore, you will have the happiness of greeting the exiles in the United States.

They left Kutayah on the 1st, and were taken by a Turkish war steamer from the port of Gimelek to the Dardanelles, where the Mississippi and Mr. Murah, the American Minister—who had just returned from a visit to Syria and Egypt—were awaiting them. Much credit is due to Sir Stratford Canning, the British Minister in Constantinople, and the Diplomatic Minister of Sardinia, for their indefatigable exertions in behalf of the exiles. The former functionary is understood to be the most influential person at the Court of the Sultan, and British diplomacy is happily just now exerted throughout Europe in favor of the right cause.

Commodore Warrington expired at Washington on Sunday morning.

The New Judge.—The Hon. Benjamin Robbins Curtis took the oath of office as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States for the first circuit, on Friday afternoon. The oath was administered by Judge Sprague of the District Court for the Massachusetts District.

KATHLEEN'S FAREWELL.

The following exquisite little song was written by the celebrated vocalist Catharine Hayes, the "Swan of Erin." It will find a welcome in the hearts of all true Irishmen:

Dear Erin, ere I leave thy shore,
Kiss me my dear, sincere adieu;
Should Kathleen ever see thee more,
Her heart's best love to thee is due.

Green o'er thy waters, native Isle,
How beautiful thou art to me;
Flood, through my parting tears I sail,
To claim, old land, my birth from thee.

The shamrock wreath, thy flattering hands
Have kindly placed upon my brow,
Shall o'er the wreaths of other lands
Bloom fresh, and fair, and loved as now.

Oh! over in this heart shall stay
Thy gentle welcome, warm as true,
'Till I keep thy Kathleen, far away!
Erin! my own loved land, adieu!

A curious question is raised in Rhode Island, viz: whether Mr. Lawrence, acting Governor in the absence of the Executive, has a right to resume the office of Lieut. Governor, to which he was originally chosen. It is urged that in assuming the office of Governor, and taking the oath of Governor, he vacated the office of Lieut. Governor. By the constitution, in the case which happened, the Lieutenant Governor fills the office of Governor, discharging its duties until a Governor is qualified, without the necessity of taking a new oath of office.—Mr. Lawrence, taking a different view of the matter, qualified himself by oath of the people, and not as acting Governor.—Lowell Courier.

A good idea is advanced by a writer in the National Intelligencer, viz:—That in case another Expedition is fitted out, to search for Sir John Franklin, a more minute search for the missing navigator may be made through the aid of balloons, with which, and the required apparatus, the vessels may be provided at the time of sailing, and, when arrived at the supposed vicinity of the missing expedition, these balloons may be sent up from the decks of the vessels, or from the ice or land if convenient, and their elevations governed and regulated by cords, so as to attain any required height, and give to the enroute a view of many miles over the land or ice and ice barriers, where probably at the time vessels or expeditions on the ice could not proceed in every required direction.

Ten thousand dollars were found in dead letters at Washington the last quarter.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.
The Secretary of the Navy has issued orders to the several navy stations, to pay the customary honors on the occasion of Commodore Warrington's funeral to-morrow.

CHARLESTON, Oct. 13.
The steamship Isabel from Havana, reports all quiet. The amount subscribed for the relief of the widows and orphans of the slain had reached $50,000. Exchange had advanced. Freight unchanged. Cotton at Charleston had declined, fair 8 1-4.

MARRIED.
